27. Space Weather
The Magnetic Sun
Cycles of Solar Activity

The Sun spins slightly faster at the equator than the poles. This may slowly ‘wind up’ the magnetic field, triggering cycles of sunspots.
Sunspots occur in pairs, with bundles of magnetic field lines connecting them.
Later in a cycle, spots appear closer to the equator.
What About the Current Cycle?