This star chart shows the zenith, the point directly overhead, at the center of the chart. The circle represents the horizon, so the stars outside it are not visible, although some may rise in the east later in the night.

To find constellations and stars, hold the chart overhead and rotate the page until the correct direction labeled on the horizon circle is ahead of you. You should now be able to look back and forth between the star chart and the sky, and match the constellations.